This action is in response to the Amendment submission of 30 May 2007. Terminal Disclaimer(s) received overcome previously presented double patenting rejections. New claims 64-66 are not believed to raise issues of new matter.

Response to Arguments

Applicant has pointed out that the invention of Riaziat (US 6,690,965) is commonly owned with the instant application. The reference is therefore disqualified for use in 102(e) and/or 103(a) rejections and therefore the previous rejection(s) have been withdrawn.

Arguments are moot in view of new grounds of rejection presented herein, constituting a second non-final Office action.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaufman et al. (US 7,006,862) in view of Takeo (US 6,125,166).

Kaufman discloses a system and associated method in which radiation therapy is gated by an ECG signal, that involves at least first and second real-time images and forming a composite image with thresholding pixel (contrast) values in the activation/deactivation of a therapeutic radiation (abstract; Fig. 16; col. 5; col. 14; col. 20, lines 16-23; col. 3, lines 32-45; col. 8, lines 8-14; col. 13, lines 24-33; col. 2, lines 57-64; col. 9, lines 10-17; inter alia). Kaufman et al. do not expressly teach conducting a subtraction operation among images, but where Kaufman is deficient, Takeo et al. establish what is conventional within the skill of the art. Takeo et al. discloses a method of forming energy subtraction images and discloses using contrast values to determine threshold values (col. 1, lines 50-64 for the subtraction process; also col. 19, lines 11-28 in which a contrast value is used). It would have been obvious to use a contrast value of the image for reference as taught by Takeo in the system of Riaziat for determining a threshold value in the gating of a procedure, as contrast image data allows for extraction of a specific image structure that would be receiving treatment (for motivation, see Takeo at col. 2, lines 23-24).

2. Claims 24-66 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaufman et al. in view of Takeo, as applied in section 1 above, further in view of Verard et al. (US 2004/0097805).

Kaufman et al. as appended by Takeo includes all features of the invention as substantially claimed, including enhancing a moving object except for providing templates that include both image and treatment data. In the same field of endeavor, Verard et al. disclose registration images with templates (para. 112 and para. 132 in which templates provide treatment data that includes lead placement and para. 146 for templates that provide therapy effective zones). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to have incorporated template registration as taught by Verard et al. with the system of Riaziat et al. in order to optimize the procedure (for motivation, see Verard para. 146). Takeo et al. teach image averaging for the purpose of smoothing an image (col. 13, lines 36-46). It would have been obvious to incorporate image averaging as taught by Takeo with the modified system of Riaziat in order to smooth images in the sequence. Features in the depending claims are clearly taught in the references applied or are considered to be obvious within the skill of the art.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
